Announcement

We would like to announce that the present Czech title of this Journal

APLIKACE MATEMATIKY

will be slightly changed to its English version

APPLICATIONS OF MATHEMATICS

since 1991, No. 1. As the tradition of the Journal is quite long and well established, the numbering of volumes will continue, so that we will publish vol. 36 in 1991.

As before, the Journal will publish original papers which bring some new mathematical results and are at the same time interesting from the point of view of applications, e.g. in the fields of numerical analysis, applications of differential equations, problems of control, elasticity, optimization, statistics, etc. The emphasis is on a high scientific standard in mathematics, so that papers in applications using only routine mathematics are not accepted.

All papers are published in congress languages, most of them in English.

We will make every effort for the Journal to be useful to all working in the relevant fields. We hope that those who read our Journal or who subscribe to it will continue to do so. As for other interested researchers and institutions, we invite them to examine the Journal, to follow its contents, and to enter their subscription. Details concerning the subscription are given on the last page of the cover.
